Southwest Airlines – Frankfurt, Germany

Southwest Airlines does not have an official corporate, ticketing, customer service, or sales office in Frankfurt, Germany. Southwest is a U.S.-based airline headquartered in Dallas, Texas, and it handles reservations and customer support through its central global channels rather than local staffed offices in Europe. ### Key points about Southwest and Frankfurt:

- No official Southwest office in Frankfurt: There's no Southwest Airlines corporate or ticketing location listed in Frankfurt or at Frankfurt Airport (FRA) operated by the airline itself.
- Route network focus: Southwest's scheduled flights mainly serve destinations within the U.S., Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean. It does not operate regular scheduled flights from Frankfurt as part of its own network. (Southwest Airlines)
- Partnership with Condor: Southwest has a recent partnership with German airline Condor that allows customers to connect between Southwest flights in the U.S. and Condor's service out of Frankfurt, but this is not the same as Southwest having its own office there. (PR Newswire)

How to contact Southwest from Germany

Since there's no local office in Frankfurt:

- Official Southwest Customer Service / Reservations:
  - Visit the Southwest Airlines official contact page for international phone numbers, web chat, or email support. (Help Center | Southwest Airlines)
  - You can call the U.S. customer service numbers from Germany — though international calling charges may apply. (Help Center | Southwest Airlines)

This means if you're looking for support while in Frankfurt—whether booking, changing a flight, or getting help—you'll need to use Southwest's official global contact channels or use the airline's website/app rather than visit a local Frankfurt office.
