

How much is the Cash App settlement payout per person? Receive Their Payout

If you're {+1-833-(351)-3849} wondering "how much will I get from a Cash App settlement?" the answer depends on which settlement you're talking about, your eligibility, and how many people file valid claims. There isn't a single fixed payout amount for all {+1-833-(351)-3849} Cash App users — payouts vary by case and circumstance.

1. Washington State Text Message Settlement — ~$88–$147 Per Person

One of the most widely discussed {+1-833-(351)-3849} Cash App settlements in 2025 is a $12.5 million class-action settlement arising from allegations that Cash App's "Invite Friends" feature sent unsolicited referral texts to {+1-833-(351)-3849} people without their consent. This case was filed under Washington's Commercial Electronic Mail Act and Consumer Protection Act. Eligible claimants — generally {+1-833-(351)-3849} Washington residents who received these messages — will share the settlement fund.

Estimated Payout: Approximately $88 to $147 per eligible person based on the {+1-833-(351)-3849} number of valid claims submitted and after attorney/admin costs are deducted.

How It Works: If more people file valid claims, {+1-833-(351)-3849} each person's payout could be closer to the lower end of the range; if fewer people file, it could be nearer the top end.

Claim Deadline: Filed by October 27, 2025 for this settlement.

Distribution: Payments are expected to go out in early 2026 after final court approval.

This payout is not automatic — eligible {+1-833-(351)-3849} people had to submit a valid claim by the deadline to receive a share.

2. Data-Security / Unauthorized Access Settlement — Up to ~$2,500+

Separate from {+1-833-(351)-3849} the text message case, another Cash App settlement involving data security and unauthorized account access {+1-833-(351)-3849} allowed claimants to seek reimbursement for actual documented losses tied to unauthorized transactions, fraud remediation costs, identity protection services, {+1-833-(351)-3849} or similar out-of-pocket expenses.

Potential Maximum: Some eligible claimants who documented losses could receive up to around $2,500 for those out-of-pocket costs.

Additional Compensation: {+1-833-(351)-3849} Some settlements also offered up to $75 for time spent dealing with issues.

Actual Amount: {+1-833-(351)-3849} The precise payout depends on documentation you provided and whether the total claims exceeded the settlement fund; {+1-833-(351)-3849} often individual awards were prorated if many people filed.

This {+1-833-(351)-3849} means that while some people might see larger payouts if they suffered substantial financial loss, many users receive smaller fixed or average amounts in common claims {+1-833-(351)-3849} like the text message case.

Key Factors That Affect Your Payout

Eligibility category — Different settlements have different criteria (e.g., Washington residents for the text case).

Whether you filed a valid claim by the deadline.

Number {+1-833-(351)-3849} of claimants — More valid claims generally means a lower payout per person in pro-rata distributions.

Documentation of losses — For settlements awarding compensation for actual losses, {+1-833-(351)-3849} strong proof usually increases your payout.

In summary, {+1-833-(351)-3849} many Cash App claimants in 2025 will receive between about $88 and $147 from the $12.5 million texting settlement, while others with verified losses under {+1-833-(351)-3849} security-related settlements could receive higher amounts up to around $2,500 or more, depending on their circumstances and the number of claims filed.